

Aleda Chen, Pharm.D., Ph.D., FAPhA

Associate Dean and Associate Professor of Pharmacy Practice at Cedarville University
Cedarville, OH, US

Dr. Chen is an expert in pharmacy education, patient health behavior change, and vaccine hesitancy.

Biography

As an educator and researcher, Dr. Chen focuses on the social and behavioral aspects of pharmacy, with a focus on motivational interviewing and health disparities/ cultural humility in patient and student education. Her research has resulted in over 50 peer-reviewed manuscripts, over 100 national and international presentations, multiple book chapters, and funded grants. Dr. Chen is actively involved with the pharmacy profession, including serving and chairing several national pharmacy organization committees. She was recognized as a Fellow of the American Pharmacists Association in 2020, nominated by the Academy of Research Scientists. Dr. Chen also serves as an Associate Editor for the Research in Social and Administrative Pharmacy journal. She has worked as a community pharmacist and a consultant pharmacist since 2006.

Industry Expertise

Education/Learning, Pharmaceuticals, Health and Wellness, Medical Devices, Health Care - Providers, Health Care - Services

Areas of Expertise

Pharmacy Education, Patient Behavior Change, Vaccine Hesitancy, Patient Ability to Understand Health Information

Affiliations

CVS Health, Profero Team, LLC

Education

Purdue University

Ph.D. (Dual-Title) Pharmacy Practice and Gerontology

Purdue University

M.Sc. Pharmacy Practice

Ohio Northern University

Pharm.D. Pharmacy

Accomplishments

American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy Teacher of the Year
Issued by Cedarville University

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.