

Amanda Phalin

Instructional Associate Professor at University of Florida

Gainesville, FL, US

Amanda Phalin is an expert in global economics and politics, as well as educational technology.

Biography

Amanda Phalin has expertise in international economic and political issues, as well as the use of technology in higher education. She is available to speak about trade and tariffs, global economic activity and political issues that may affect the United States and worldwide economy. Amanda's research covers several areas, including gender issues in international business and economics; educational technology, pedagogy and outcomes; and intellectual property rights, particularly in the green sector. She is fluent in French and well-versed in French and European politics and current events.

Industry Expertise

International Trade and Development, International Affairs, Business Services

Areas of Expertise

Innovation and Intellectual Property Rights, Educational Technology and Pedagogy, Environmental Economics, Development Economics, International Economics, International Business, International Trade, Global Economy, European Union, Gender Issues, Business, France, Tariffs

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.