Andrea S. Boyles

Associate Professor of Sociology and Africana Studies at Tulane University New Orleans, LA, US

Dr. Boyles is an expert in race and social justice; Black citizen-police conflict; neighborhood disorder/crime; community; and resistance.

Biography

Andrea S. Boyles, a native of St. Louis, Missouri, is an expert in social inequality; the intersection of race, gender, and class; community and neighborhood disorder; race, place, and policing; segregation and racial-spatial politics; social movements and collective action; and qualitative methods/ethnography. As a social justice feminist and race scholar, Boyles has served on numerous diversity task forces and committees, as a Sociologists for Women in Society (SWS) delegate to the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women (CSW63), and in various capacities with corporations and organizations, including American Airlines, Amnesty International and the National Organization of Black Law Enforcement (NOBLE). Boyles has taught within the Missouri prison system and presented research on the effects of incarcerated parents on children.

Areas of Expertise

Qualitative Methods, Neighborhood Disadvantage and Disorder, Intersections of Race, Class and Gender, Social Inequality, Police-Citizen Relations, Community Development and Engagement, Resilience and Collective Action

Affiliations

Sociologists for Women in Society, Association of Black Sociologists, American Sociological Association, American Society of Criminology, Midwest Sociological Society, Society for the Study of Social Problems

Education

Kansas State University PhD Sociology, with concentration in Criminology and Gender

Lincoln University of Missouri Master of Arts Sociology

Lincoln University of Missouri Bachelor of Arts English

Accomplishments

"You Can't Stop the Revolution: Community Disorder and Social Ties in Post-Ferguson America" "You Can?t Stop the Revolution" is a vivid participant ethnography conducted from inside of Ferguson protests as the Black Lives Matter movement catapulted onto the global stage.

"Race, Place and Suburban Policing: Too Close For Comfort"

"Race, Place, and Suburban Policing" tells the story of social injustice, racialized policing, nationally profiled shootings, and the ambiguous nature of black life in a suburban context.

Scholar of the Year Award Awarded in 2016 by Lindenwood University in Belleville, Illinois

S.O.A.R. (Service and Outstanding Achievement Recognition) Award Awarded by the 17th Street Neighborhood Corridor in Belleville, Illinois in recognition of education/mentorship in secondary and higher education

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.