Inspiring and sharing stories of 'Beautiful Business': conscious leadership, inspiring change and better ways of living and working.

Biography

I help good organisations and communities to win. I am interested in how organisations thrive through richer relationships with people and community - what I call 'Beautiful Business.' Making business human - and fit for human beings - is one of the great narratives of our current times and something we must do more of. In my work as an entrepreneur and consultant I help great organisations and people thrive in this way - with more insight, meaning and value. I am a partner at an international consultancy for change and I have projects in Spain and London geared to exploring better ways of living and working.

Creative Change

Starts by reminding us that 70% of change initiatives fail, and that only 14% of people are highly engaged in their work. So this is about exploring more profound ways of working with change, borrowing from more human realms of art, nature and design. I talk through different propositions of change and give practical examples of change through Imagination, Story and Play.
