?Angel is a dynamo when it comes to establishing values in the workplace. She is an authority on business practices, including customer service, business relations, and bringing together like-minded people. Her radio show is listened to by anyone and everyone who wants to stay in the know, and stay in business in this rapidly changing economy. Angel's books are inspirational, and help to bring that sense of balance that so many women business people seek, and yet they speak to both genders equally as we all determine how best to run our ventures.?
