Anita Williams Woolley

Associate Professor at Carnegie Mellon University

Pittsburgh, PA, US

Anita Williams Woolley is an organizational psychologist who studies team collaboration in the workplace and collective intelligence.

Biography

Anita Williams Woolley is an organizational psychologist who studies team collaboration in the workplace and collective intelligence, including how technology and artificial intelligence can help organizations collaborate more effectively. She also studies best practices for remote work and the ways that different individual characteristics, such as cognitive style and social perceptiveness, as well as group diversity enhance team collective intelligence.

Industry Expertise

Telecommunications

Areas of Expertise

Remote Work, Team Collaboration, Collective Intelligence, Organizational Psychology, Cognitive Style, Social Perceptiveness, Group Diversity?

Affiliations

Editorial Review Board Member, Academy of Management Discoveries (2015 -), Editorial Review Board Member, Organization Science (2009 -), Editorial Review Board Member, Small Group Research (2008 -)

Education

Harvard University
Ph.D. Organizational Behavior

Harvard University
A.M. Social Psychology

Harvard University
A.B. Psychology

Accomplishments

Roman Weil Prize for the Best Unpublished Paper on Problem-Solving 2010

Best Paper Award, Managerial and Organizational Cognition Division, Academy of Management 2011

Finalist, Best Paper of the Year, Small Group Research
2008

Bok Center Certificate of Distinction in Teaching, Harvard University
2007

Best Research Proposal, Academy of Management Managerial and Organizational Cognition Division "Cognition in the Rough" Workshop
2006

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.