Biography

"Design should be seen as more than the frosting on a functional interface". Best quote ever.... A usable website is important but more important is to make the user desire to use your website. This is my objective: I believe that the internet should be more fun. I love colour and typography. I love my work and take pride in everything I create even though I know it can always be better. I am organised and love working with people. I have a keen eye for detail and a way with Photoshop and i'm not too bad with CSS and HTML.
