

Brandon Frederick De Bruhl

Lecturer of Economics at Loyola Marymount University

Los Angeles, CA, US

Biography

A Senior Policy Analyst and Economist researching the interaction of data science, economics, and public finance on national security issues. Over ten years of policy and economic analysis in the science and technology sector focuses on evaluating the impact of emerging new technologies on social dynamics.

Affiliations

Alphabet Corporation : Google Policy Fellow (US Congress), 2015 - 2016, Leaders Up (Starbucks Corporation) : Economic Policy Fellow, 2014 - 2015

Event Appearances

Presenter: Discussion with students about econometric applications for measuring the impact of the Ukraine/Russian Conflict

London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE)

Presenter: Economic Effects of Cyber-attacks on Nuclear Weapon Production

North America Treaty Organization 4th Edition of the Early-Career Nuclear Strategists' Workshop

Panelist: National Security in the New Space Economy ? Presentation of initial findings for high dimensionality utility matrix for the PRISM meta-analysis

London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE)

Presenter and Discussant: Costs-Without Benefits: Revising the Computer Match Act to Unlock the Power of Big Data (B. De Bruhl, L. O'Shaughnessy)

Midwestern Political Science Conference (MPSA)

Education

University of Southern California

MPP Economics and Decision Science

University of Southern California

D. PP Public Policy

Syracuse University
M.A. International Relations

Seattle University
B.A. Political Economy and Science

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.