Brian Clark

Assistant Professor, Lally School of Management at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Troy, NY, US

Quantitative finance expert with extensive experience in risk management and machine learning in the banking and credit card industries.

Biography

Professor Clark's research focuses on financial intermediation and risk management with an emphasis on machine learning. He currently teaches several quantitative finance courses including Financial Computation and Simulation and Advanced AI/ML for Finance. Additionally, Clark has spent a decade working as a Senior Financial Economist with the US Office of the Comptroller of the Currency. Clark's work has been published in the Journal of Banking and Finance, Journal of Financial Stability, and Operations Research Letters.

Areas of Expertise

Machine Learning in Finance, Financial Regulation, Financial Intermediation, Quantitative Finance, Risk Management

Education

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
Ph.D. Finance

Clarkson University
MBA

Clarkson University
M.E. Mechanical Engineering

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
B.S. Biomedical Engineering