Dr. Catherine Yu is a staff endocrinologist at St Michael's Hospital and an Associate Scientist at the Li Ka Shing Knowledge Institute. She is also Chair of the Dissemination and Implementation Committee of Diabetes Canada's Clinical Practice Guidelines. Dr. Yu's research interests lie in the role of patient and clinician behaviour change in knowledge translation. She is particularly interested in the development of innovative strategies for continuing professional development and patient education in chronic disease management, specifically diabetes care. Her projects include the role of interactive self-management websites, order sets, computer-based simulators and interprofessional workshops on knowledge, behavior change, clinical and psychological outcomes. Additional research specialties are endocrinology and medical education.
