Visual communications & presentation expert - MS PPT MVP

Biography

My mission: make sure speakers, trainers and presenters get results the next time they are in front of an audience! I help speakers get more recognition by allowing them to present in an inspiring and efficient way. This way they get a positive and long term impact on their audiences. My two main objectives: - Improve your confidence with visual communication tools adapted to your style, and have fun doing it! Less stress and nightmares for you. ;-) - Improve audience satisfaction because they will be attending inspiring presentations that meet their expectations instead of living through "Death by PowerPoint"! Specialties: - Presentation message & structure (storyboarding) - Template / visual content design - PowerPoint training tailored to your needs - Presentation coaching - Handout and document design & development - Courseware development with your SMEs

BIO Author, blogger, trainer, speaker and presentations & visual communications expert, Chantal was also awarded the Microsoft® PowerPoint MVP (Most Valuable Professional) title for a second year in 2014. After starting her career in science and telecommunications, she started her business in 2004. Since then, she's not working but having fun on a daily basis. Her main objective as a communications enthusiast is to assist entrepreneurs, trainers and speakers in their quest to improve their presentation performances. Designing and delivering clear & concise presentations that have a convincing and inspiring message can be fun for everyone, especially when technology is working FOR us! In the past few years Chantal has been a speaker at events such as LinkedQuebec Networking, entrepreneurial conferences, Toastmaster event, and a few international webinars. She has also been a presentation coach for the TEDxQuebec event for the past three years. She gives workshops and speaks on topics based on her guide "7 concepts to transform your PowerPoint presentations in visual communication tools". She's also the author of a French eBook on how to master PowerPoint's masters to reduce efforts required to produce great presentations, and co-author of "Relational Presentation ? A Visually Interactive Approach Condensed Edition". Chantal has been writing about PowerPoint and presentations on her blog "Présentations efficaces" since 2008.

Accomplishments

Microsoft PowerPoint MVP

I was awarded the Microsoft® PowerPoint MVP (Most Valuable Professional) title for a second year in 2014, one of 13 people in North America, and only Canadian woman. The PowerPoint MVP award recognizes the technological competency and the capacity to improve presentation delivery results.

TEDxQuebec Speaker Coach

For a third year in a row, I have been coaching speakers at the TEDxQuebec event to help them refine their great idea so they can share a great story.
