Business and finance guy who knows how to make money talk.

Biography

Understanding the finances in your business, right down to the penny, can make all the difference between moderate success and hitting all your business targets and I can tell you why. I am one of the founding directors of One Accounting, a chartered management accountancy practice in Edinburgh. I work as a virtual finance director for ambitious SMEs who are focused on aggressively growing their businesses in the next few years. Prior to working in practice, I was in various senior financial roles with companies including Kwik-Fit, Reg Vardy and Sally Beauty Supply. I am originally from Reading and have an MBA from the University of Reading before taking further qualifications at Newcastle upon Tyne Polytechnic. When I'm not in the office, I enjoy trying to beat my personal records at running and golf.
