Professor of Economics | Villanova School of Business at Villanova University

Villanova, PA, US

Christopher Kilby, PhD, is an expert in political economy of development aid and how it is influenced by U.S. politics and world events.

---

Biography

Dr. Kilby's focus is on the political economy of foreign aid, a topic at the intersection of Economics and Political Science. His work includes statistical analysis that examines the influence of the U.S. and other major donors on the behavior of international financial institutions, such as the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank, the domestic politics of U.S. bilateral aid, and the impact of aid on developing countries.
