Recipe for Life

Biography

A motivational speaker, coach and trainer, Debbie's personal journey has been full of forks in the road. A fashion buyer whose career began at Dillard's, eventually moving on to A Pea in the Pod and Viacom Entertainment, found she liked food more than fashion after taking a volunteer position buying for a gourmet store between jobs. Her passion unleashed; she transitioned her career and published her first cookbook, managed culinary schools and became a chef. With a successful corporate career behind her she packaged that knowledge with the discovery of the key ingredients to personal fulfillment. Today Debbie facilitates "Recipe for Life", a program encouraging health, wellness and personal development. Through team building, workshops and presentations, Debbie guides participants to examine powerful ingredients for a successful personal and professional life.
