Biography

Debi Stangeland has been speaking to groups large and small for many years. She brings a variety of real life experiences to share as she connects with women from all walks of life. When speaking to women's groups, her deep desire is to see women grow in Christ, get connected in community and be refreshed. She uses humor, inspiration and the Word to share the love of God with women of all ages and from different backgrounds. Her aim is to open the lines of communication so that women can relate to one another and share in authentic dialogue that will move them closer to Christ. To blogging events, Debi brings over 7 years of experience running numerous blogs and websites. She relays how women, in all stages of life, can use blogging to build community, share their knowledge and encourage others. Her main focus is helping bloggers build their audience and write with passion. Debi's approachable style as a communicator enables her audiences to feel accepted, included, and motivated.

Sample Talks

Lights. Camera. Laundry.

As women, we have a tendency to think that when we get it all together God can finally use us. What we fail to realize, however, is that while we are caring for a child or a parent or a spouse, while we are going through a divorce, while we are looking for a job or while we are folding laundry, God is molding and shaping us to be the women He created us to be. His fingerprints are all over us, right in the middle of the ordinary and the mundane.

Testimonials

Sarah F.
?Debi held our attention and used examples that we all could relate to.?

Jean M.
Hearing Debi speak gave me encouragement, a new hope and a new view - but mostly it gave me joy!

Amber B.
Debi really made me think about who I am becoming in my walk with Christ.

Faith T.
I could really relate to Debi's story. She showed me that everyone goes through things and that God is always there.
