

Demetrice Rogers

Adjunct Professor at Tulane University

New Orleans, LA, US

Demetrice Rogers is an expert in cybersecurity and information technology.

Biography

Demetrice Rogers is an adjunct professor within the Tulane University School of Professional Advancement. Demetrice has been active in the Information Technology and Cybersecurity realm for over 15 years. He is currently serving as an active-duty Air Force Cyber Warfare Operator, responsible for protecting the Air Force Information Network. Before his current assignment as a Cyber Operations Planner, Demetrice was an instructor for both the Cyber Warfare Operations course and the Undergraduate Cyberspace Training course at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss. Demetrice has amassed over 4,200 hours of instructional experience and faculty development training and education. Demetrice holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Applied Computer Science from Troy University and a Master of Science Degree in Cybersecurity Management and Policy from Embry-Riddle University. Demetrice holds several industry-related certifications including: -GIAC Certified Forensic Analyst (GCFA) -GIAC Certified Incident Handler (GCIH) -GIAC Certified Exploit Researcher and Advanced Penetration Tester (GXPN) -CompTIA Security+ -Cisco Certified CyberOps Associate

Areas of Expertise

Cyberattacks, Information Assurance, Computer Forensics, Cybersecurity, Information Technology, Vulnerability Assessment, Dark Web

Education

Colorado Technical College

Doctor of Science Computer Science

Embry-Riddle University

Master of Science Cybersecurity Management & Policy

Troy University

Bachelor of Science Applied Computer Science

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.