

Douglas Nelson

Professor of Economics at Tulane University

New Orleans, LA, US

Douglas Nelson's current research interests are focused on the political economy of trade policy

Biography

Professor Nelson obtained his Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1981. In addition to positions with the U.S. Treasury and The World Bank, he has held regular faculty positions at Rutgers University, University of Texas-Dallas, and Syracuse University, and has held visiting positions at Washington University in St. Louis, the Australian National University, the University of Nottingham, and Karl-Franzens-Universitat Graz. He is currently an external fellow of the Leverhulme Centre for Research on Globalisation and Economic Policy at the University of Nottingham. His primary research interests lie in the areas of political economy of trade policy, the empirical link between globalisation and wages, and trade and trade policy under increasing returns to scale.

Areas of Expertise

Trade, Economic Policy, Political Economy of Trade, Globalisation, Trade Policy

Affiliations

The World Economy : Editorial Advisory Board, Leverhulme Centre for Research on Globalisation and Economic Policy : External Research Fellow

Education

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Ph.D.

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

M.A.

Miami University

B.A.

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.