

Dr Oleksandr Shepotylo

Senior Lecturer, Economics, Finance and Entrepreneurship at Aston University

Birmingham, , GB

Dr Shepotylo seeks to answer the question of how do firms, industries, and countries grow by integrating into global markets.

Biography

Dr Shepotylo is an applied economist focusing on International Trade and Productivity. The central question of his research is: how do firms, industries, and countries grow by integrating into the global markets? Dr Shepotylo advances research on the effect of trade policy and globalization on economic performance on three levels: looking at firms within a partial equilibrium model of an industry, analyzing bilateral trade flows within a general equilibrium model, and studying global spatial spillovers.
