Villanova , PA, US

Erica Slotter, PhD, is an expert in social psychology and romantic relationships.

Biography

Romantic relationships and the manner in which they influence individuals' sense of self is Dr. Slotter's specialty. She is an expert on how one romantic partner can integrate the characteristics of the other into their own self-concept. Dr. Slotter can explore other relationship paradoxes like how a romantic partner can simultaneously develop aggression and attachment anxiety toward a loved one. She can also speak to the self-identity confusion that sometimes ensues after a relationship ends.
