

Erin Tolley

Assistant Professor of Political Science at University of Toronto

Toronto , ON, CA

Expert on race, gender and diversity in Canadian politics

Biography

Erin Tolley is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto and the award-winning author of Framed: Media and the Coverage of Race in Canadian Politics. Her research examines the impact of socio-demographic diversity on Canadian politics, and she has looked extensively at race and gender in politics. She provides media commentary and analysis on: - Diversity and Canadian political institutions - Electoral representation of women and minorities - Media coverage of women and minorities in politics - Immigration, citizenship and multiculturalism policy Dr. Tolley's work has also appeared in the Canadian Journal of Political Science, the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, and Migration Policy Research; she is the author or co-author of 12 peer-reviewed book chapters, and the co-editor of five books.

Areas of Expertise

Canadian Politics, Women in Politics, Immigration and multiculturalism, Diversity

Affiliations

Board of Directors, Canadian Political Science Association, Advisory Board, Federation of Canadian Municipalities Diverse Voices for Change

Education

Queen's University

PhD Political Science

University of Western Ontario

MA Political Science

University of Saskatchewan

BA (High Honours) Political Studies

Accomplishments

2017 Donald Smiley Prize

Awarded by the Canadian Political Science Association for the Best Book on Canadian Government or Politics

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.