Boston, MA, US

Gary Bishop is an expert in business development, including acquisition identification, growth marketing, product marketing and operations.

Biography

An accomplished entrepreneurial executive with P&L experience, Gary Bishop is a troubleshooter who relishes turning around underperforming companies and driving future growth. He has a comprehensive background of directing every facet of a company's business. Experienced in the dealings of the board room and the shop floor, and equally comfortable reading a balance sheet or a machine drawing. He has successfully scoped, developed, and introduced award-winning new products for global markets. Lasers, optics, software and consulting experience have provided me with first hand knowledge of defense, life sciences, medical, and semiconductor industries to name a few. Gary is a leader with a demonstrated record of stimulating and bringing about change effectively and diplomatically. He is a person who takes great pride in mentoring people and watching them evolve and excel. Known for clearly defining mission and goals, aligning people and resources, and consistently delivering results that beat corporate targets across all facets of a business.
