Biography

I have worked in/with and understand multiple fields and disciplines, and my talent is in being able to see the connections among them and mix them up in meaningful, connected, and more productive ways. My passion is in continuing to expand that palette of skills and in innovating and refining workflow patterns -- whether they be across fields or spanning old and new ways of craftsmanship. My talent is in bringing the disparate perspectives of the individuals in each of those areas to a common agenda based on understanding how and why and where their unique field impacts or draws from others. When that happens, work doesn't just get done ? it flourishes. I have delivered quantifiable ops- and project-portfolio leadership to organizations ranging from start-ups to global advertising agencies. A former litigation attorney with experience spanning advertising, start-up enterprise and venture capital, apt at analyzing large quantities of information rapidly, I assess complex operational constructs and translate the entirety into quantifiable process and ROI. I bring a strong collegial approach without compromising IRR or clear accountability/roles and responsibilities. Specialties: - Corporate operations: Start-up to established, pre-acquisition to post-merger - Digital transformation technologies - Enterprise project team and PMO development and management
