

Janie Robinson

Associate Professor at Texas Christian University

Fort Worth, TX, US

Dr. Robinson's interest include kidney disease, chronic illnesses, and health disparities in African Americans

Biography

Janie R. Robinson is a Professor of Nursing in the Harris College of Nursing & Health Sciences at Texas Christian University. She received her Bachelors of Science in Nursing, Masters of Science in Nursing, and Doctorate in the Philosophy in Nursing from Southern University and A & M College in Baton Rouge, LA. She has been a registered nurse over 27 years. She is a Certified Nurse Educator. Her Nursing specialty is Medical-Surgical Nursing. Her research interest includes decreasing incidence of kidney disease in African American, improving health outcomes in African Americans with chronic illnesses, and decreasing health disparities in African Americans. She was selected as one of Dallas/Fort Worth Great 100 Nurses in 2020. She has also published and presented her research findings at local and national and international conferences.

Areas of Expertise

Kidney Disease in African Americans, Chronic Illnesses in African Americans, Health Disparities in African Americans

Affiliations

Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing (STTI), Academy of Medical-Surgical Nurses (AMSN), Black Doctoral Network (BDN), American Nurses Association (ANA), Texas Nurses Association (TNA)

Education

Southern University and A & M College

Ph.D. Nursing

Southern University and A & M College,

M.S. Nursing

Southern University and A & M College

B.S. Nursing

Accomplishments

DFW Great 100 Nurse

2020 The Dallas Fort Worth Great 100 Nurses Inc.,

TCU Senior Class Legacy Honoree National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity 2015

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.