

Jerome "Jay" Apt

Professor Emeritus at Carnegie Mellon University

Pittsburgh, PA, US

Jay Apt is an emeritus professor at the Tepper School of Business and in the Department of Engineering and Public Policy.

Biography

Jay Apt is an emeritus professor at Carnegie Mellon University's Tepper School of Business and in the CMU Department of Engineering and Public Policy. He has authored more than 120 papers in peer-reviewed scientific journals, as well as two books and several book chapters. He has published opinion pieces in the Wall Street Journal, the New York Times, and the Washington Post. Apt received an A.B. in physics from Harvard College in 1971 and a Ph.D. in physics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1976. He is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He was a member of the Electric Power Research Institute Board of Directors from 2007 through 2013. He received the NASA Distinguished Service Medal and the Metcalf Lifetime Achievement Award for significant contributions to engineering.

Industry Expertise

Public Policy, Writing and Editing, Aerospace, Education/Learning, Research

Areas of Expertise

Public Policy, Physics, Energy, Risk Analysis, Engineering

Affiliations

American Association for the Advancement of Science : Fellow, Center for Climate and Energy Decision Making, Electricity Industry Center, Wilton E. Scott Institute for Energy Innovation

Education

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Ph.D. Experimental Atomic Physics

Harvard College

B.A. Physics

Accomplishments

Metcalf Lifetime Achievement Award
2002

NASA Distinguished Service Medal
1997

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.