Embrace Adversity & Reclaim Positive Perspective Inspirational Speaker

Biography

Does your organization have an annual Symposium or Event? Are you considering doing so in 2014? If so, I would be honored to be your chosen as your Keynote Speaker. Here's why: I have been the Keynote Speaker at dozens of Symposiums for hospitals, medical personnel, caregivers and patients with rave reviews bringing humor, insights, and inspiring stories of personal experiences. I have learned to live my life to the fullest with Parkinson's disease for over 11 years and am healthier now (on all levels) than I have ever been. I relate, on a personal level, with professional caregivers (a former E.M.T.), family caregivers (daughter with CP) and, of course, patients (Parkinson's Proud since 2002). My entirely new presentation provides the attendees with the following Tangible Takeaways: The realization that, despite whatever the disease, we are the same person as we have always been (maybe better for the additional life perspective) and that the disease does not define who we are. The awareness that each of us still has the power, to a great extent, to determine the course of the disease, if we choose to exercise that power. A better understanding of the emotional rollercoaster that we each go through and how to soften the curves, moving toward a "Get Over It" mentality more quickly. How to create a Plan (with Daily Action Steps) to slow, if not reverse, the symptoms of the disease, including forming your own "tribe." Getting to the point where you actually Embrace Adversity and Reclaim your Positive Perspective. Believe that somehow, someday the disease is "For the Best" and have Faith that you will "Find your Purpose." And So Much More ??. will be sure to keep my eyes and ears open for any opportunities for you to speak. I have blown through about half of the book. I have enjoyed it so far?.you weren?t kidding when you said it was an easy read. Very smooth in the delivery of the ?life lessons?. Actually feel like I am sitting in the room listening to your story. Not a big reader, but when I picked up your book and started reading, the pages were flipping like crazy. I was serious when I mentioned the fact that I felt like I was sitting down with you as part of the discussion. I have always said the best writers are the ones who make you feel like you are living the story in real time. Just felt very comfortable. Great skill to possess?one I am sure has served you well.

My Parkinson?s Superstar has to be John Baumann, one of my favorite patients. Diagnosed in 2002 at the age of 41, John worked 6 more years as an executive officer of a major corporation before dedicating his life, on a full-time basis, to making a difference in the Parkinson?s community. John has inspired those with Parkinson?s to live their lives to the fullest, family care partners to realize what a difference they make and how much they are appreciated, and professional healthcare providers to maintain their passion and commitment to the cause. John has traveled far and wide as keynote speaker at symposiums to bring his message of hope and positive perspective (Reclaiming Posi-spective).
