

John Higgs

President at Frontline Research

Lafayette, CO, US

I'll show you how to develop a straightforward mindset to be aware of your surroundings, make simple plans, and know when to execute them.

Biography

John Higgs is the author of three books that deal with different aspects of bad situations that life throws our way. He is a naturalized U.S. Citizen who came to the United States from England to enjoy the benefits of living in a free and open society with a constitution that guarantees certain individual rights. His studies and practical experience in survival, self-defense, firearms, and other related subjects span three decades. John has been a guest on Armed American Radio, and on The Best Defense show on the Outdoor Channel. The experience John gained through many years in the computer industry as a consultant programmer and analyst has prepared him to take a logical and analytical approach to the subjects about which he speak and writes. His latest book, ?Dealing with Danger ? Be Prepared, Aware and Decisive? is the subject of his presentation.

Dealing with Danger

What is the single most important goal that we all must achieve every day? Once we know the simple answer to this question, we can begin to lay the foundation for a methodology to avoid or deal with such everyday threats to our continued well being as crime, natural disasters, health issues, economic setbacks, and many more.
