Biography

Joseph Constantine, Ph.D., CCC-SLP is a speech-language pathologist (SLP) with over 25 years of clinical experience working with both adults and children. He is based in Pittsburgh, PA. Prior to joining Fielding Graduate University, Dr. Constantine's experiences included establishing the first-ever speech-language program worldwide at a charter school for homeless children; teaching and supervising numerous communication disorders classes and clinics at the University of South Florida, the University of Louisville School of Medicine, Eastern Kentucky University, and California University of Pennsylvania; and serving as the Director of several intensive stuttering treatment programs for children, teens, and adults. He also has frequently presented at national and international conferences on the topic of communication anxiety and his research has been featured in highly regarded scholarly journals. Dr. Constantine is licensed as a speech-language pathologist in Florida, California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia. He is passionate about reaching underserved communities and utilizing holistic methods that address the whole person by integrating mental, emotional, social, and physical aspects of communication. He will often employ mindfulness, CBT, biofeedback, body scan, music, and theater arts to enhance student and client experiences.
