SharePoint Architect/Developer

Biography

For the past several years I have engaged in designing and implementing a variety of complex technical solutions for clients both large and small. I hold three MCPD certifications (MCPD: Enterprise Applications, MCPD: Windows and MCPD: Web) and several MCTS certifications for SharePoint and other technologies. My primary field of expertise is in custom software development focusing on SharePoint applications. My primary experience includes SharePoint architecture, implementation and administration as well as custom application architecture, custom Windows forms and services development, database design, and custom workflow design and development. I am also the author of several technical books on SQL Server and Reporting Services as well as many articles on other technical subjects. I am also a former MCT and speaker at conferences such as Comdex and PASS.
