Founder & CEO of Design, Build, Furnish firm in majestic Muskoka, Canada. Canadian Entrepreneur, Mentor, Advisor & Speaker

Biography

If Kelly could only find the time to write a book! Tales from the Trenches (if that has any SEO Rank) would journey her account of both her professional and personal life through 9 companies, 8 distinctly different industries (real estate, finance, furniture design, shipping, customs, data, building and ecommerce), getting help from bodies spanning numbers between 0 and 30 and learning by doing. Fail fast and run lean are beyond cliché but the two principles Kelly has relied on most in her 15+ years as an entrepreneur! Couple that with a keen eye for beautiful and well organized spaces and an addiction for building just so she can manage the project and well, its easy to see why it hasn't been penned yet. Starting in banking Kelly quickly shifted to sales & trading where her entrepreneurial spirit grew strong. Desks didn't jive with her mindset and she founded a home staging outfit, helping 750+ time-starved families maximize the return on the sale of their home in just 5 years. With the internet on the rise and no shortage of moving households she spotted an online opportunity and Remote Stylist was born. Kelly loves sharing her story to help others expedite their journey. She is a leading authority on entrepreneurial life, bootstrapping, startups, small business, technology and automation as well as being regularly quoted as an expert on home decor trends. She won Canada's Business News Network 'Best Pitch of 2012' on the show 'The Pitch', and has had feature stories in the New York Times, Crains NY, Inc. Magazine, The National Post, Toronto Star, Canada.com, Wish Magazine, HGTV, too many blogs to rhyme off, and even coverage in overseas publications from China, Dubai and Australia.
