

Lan Ngo, S.J.

Lecturer of Asian and Asian American Studies at Loyola Marymount University

Los Angeles, CA, US

Bellarmino College of Liberal Arts

Biography

Lân Ngô, S.J. is a lecturer in Asian and Asian American Studies at Loyola Marymount University. Lân Ngô earned his B.A. in general biology from the University of California, San Diego. During his Jesuit formation, he received his M.A. in philosophy at Fordham University then M.Div. at Jesuit School of Theology at Berkeley. After his ordination to the priesthood, he studied at the University of California, Berkeley where he graduated with an M.A. in Asian Studies. He recently finished his Ph.D. in East Asian history from Georgetown University. His work experiences included a research laboratory assistant in La Jolla, a high school teacher in Phoenix, and an associate pastor for a multiethnic parish in San Jose. Since 2012, he has presented his papers on the topic of Vietnamese Catholicism at various academic conferences. His latest, "Like Father, Like Sons in the Mother Church: Early History of Vietnamese Clergy Formation and their Spirituality from the Perspective of Sichuan-Gò Th? Synod," was given at the 2014 Annual Meeting of American Catholic Historical Association. From his dissertation topic on the role of the local converts in the nineteenth-century Vietnam, Professor Ngô wants to carry his research further on the development of indigenous Christianity under missionary, colonial, and nationalist pressures.

Areas of Expertise

Vietnam, Nguyen Dynasty, Early French Colonialism, Early Modern Europe, Catholic History in East Asia

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.