Dr. Neubert explores how leadership, particularly servant leadership, and ethics affect performance and well-being of people & organizations

Biography

Dr. Mitchell J. Neubert is the Chavanne Chair of Christian Ethics in Business and professor of Management at Baylor. Dr. Neubert's research interests are focused on understanding how leadership, particularly servant leadership, and ethics affect the performance and well-being of people and organizations. He also is interested in how faith intersects with these research interests. He is the primary investigator on a National Science Foundation grant exploring the relationship of religion and entrepreneurship. He has published in several journals including Personnel Psychology, Journal of Applied Psychology, Leadership Quarterly, Christian Scholars Review, Human Relations, and Review of Religious Research. He also is the author of two textbooks and teaches in Baylor's undergraduate, MBA, and Executive MBA programs. In addition to his academic responsibilities, Dr. Neubert provides leadership to programs and initiatives that promote his conviction that businesses can do well by doing good. He hosts the Hankamer School of Business's annual Dale P. Jones Ethics Forum activities and Paul J. Meyer Christian Leadership in Business initiatives. He also regularly consults with leaders in both for-profit and not-for-profit organizations and ministries.
