Visiting Researcher ? European Law Research Center, Harvard Law School

In 2004?2006 and again in 2007?2008, Rasmus was a Visiting Researcher at the European Law Research Center, Harvard Law School. The European Law Research Center was founded in 1991 to promote understanding of the law of the European Union, national law in Europe and the European legal tradition. Through its efforts, the ELRC fosters research and policy dialog about the structure and potential for global governance as we confront the most pressing issues of global policy.

Vice President ? The Harvard European Law Association

From 2004?2005, Rasmus was the Vice President of the Harvard European Law Association, which aims at fostering the academic and political debate on challenges facing the European integration. Our effort to emphasize the European dimension stems from the awareness of the momentous relevance of the structural and political transformations currently underway in the European scenario. Now more than ever, Europe connotes a political, rather than a merely economic union.
