

Rory Kramer, PhD

Associate Professor of Sociology and Criminology | College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Villanova University

Villanova, PA, US

Rory Kramer, PhD, is an expert on racial inequality, race and education, police use of force and segregation and the physical environment.

Biography

Do physical barriers impact the pattern and spread of racial segregation in cities? Dr. Kramer is an authoritative voice on how segregated neighborhoods are formed in urban areas and the influence that roads and other blockades play in their development. His work includes examining spatial segregation that better represents the growth of multi-race residential areas and the complexity of racial segregation in the United States and analysis of police use of force. He can also speak to the racial and class identities of socially mobile students, and whether or not multiracial individuals benefit from having fluid or stable racial self-identities.

Industry Expertise

Research, Education/Learning

Areas of Expertise

Criminology, Urban neighborhoods, Urban Sociology, Education and inequality, Racial identity, Social Mobility, Segregation, Sociology

Education

University of Pennsylvania
PhD

University of Pennsylvania
MA

Williams College
BA

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.