Ryan P. Bowles

Associate Professor of Department of Human Development and Family Studies at Michigan State University

East Lansing, MI, US

Measurement and Assessment of Early Childhood Language and Literacy.

Biography

Ryan P. Bowles, Associate Professor, Department of Human Development and Family Studies, received his doctorate in quantitative psychology from the University of Virginia. His research focuses on using advanced statistical methods for understanding the development of language and literacy in early childhood. He has a particular focus on the creation and analysis of assessments of language and literacy, especially for children with developmental disabilities.

Industry Expertise

Writing and Editing, Childcare, Education/Learning, Mental Health Care

Areas of Expertise

Language Assessments, Developmental and Learning Challenges, Preschool literacy, Childhood Developmental Disabilities

Affiliations

2017 ? current Editorial Board, Psychological Assessment

Education

University of Virginia
Ph.D. Quantitative Psychology

University of Virginia
M.A. Quantitative Psychology,

Accomplishments

First place, Poster competition
2009 Michigan State University Undergraduate Research Fair

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by