

Scott Shackelford

Assistant Professor of Business Law and Ethics at Indiana University, Kelley School of Business

Bloomington, IN, US

Scott Shackelford performs research in the field of environmental law, property rights and cybersecurity law and policy.

Biography

Scott J. Shackelford is an assistant professor in the Kelley School of Business Department of Business Law and Ethics. He has authored more than 30 articles, book chapters, reports, and essays in the fields of international law and relations, environmental law, property rights, and cybersecurity law and policy. A frequent speaker to a variety of local, national, and global audiences, Prof. Shackelford's current research grows from his doctoral dissertation on the governance of global common pool resources and focuses on cybersecurity and privacy. He is in the process of finalizing a book for Cambridge University Press entitled, Cyber Peace: Managing Cyber Attacks in International Law, Business, and Relations. Prior to joining the IU faculty, Prof. Shackelford worked for several multinational law firms, consulted for the U.N. Development Program in India, clerked at the NASA Office of General Counsel, helped create an elder law pro bono program at the San Mateo Legal Aid Society in California, and taught law to undergraduates at both Stanford University and Indiana University. Prof. Shackelford currently teaches business law, international business law, and a new course on sustainability law and policy at the Kelley School. He was recognized as being within the top three percent of instructors at Kelley based on student evaluations in the 2010-11 academic year. Prof. Shackelford earned his Bachelor's degree, summa cum laude with honors in Economics and Political Science, from Indiana University along with the Elvis J. Stahr Distinguished Senior Award. He then went on to earn a Masters of Philosophy in International Relations with highest distinction from the University of Cambridge as a Rotary Ambassadorial Scholar, and a J.D., with academic and pro bono distinction, from Stanford Law School where he was co-Editor-in-Chief of the Stanford Journal of International Law. Prof. Shackelford successfully defended his doctoral dissertation, Governing the Global Commons in International Law and Relations, for a Ph.D. in Politics and International Studies from the University of Cambridge in November 2011.

Industry Expertise

Political Organization, Program Development, International Affairs, Research, Education/Learning

Areas of Expertise

Policy Analysis, Public Policy, International Law, Legal Research, Political Science, Foreign Policy, Sustainability, Program Evaluation

Secondary Titles

Indiana Center for Applied Cyber Security Research : Fellow, Indiana University Center for the Study of Global Change : Affiliated Faculty, Indiana University Global and International Studies Program : Affiliated Faculty, Indiana University Integrated Program in the Environment : Affiliated Faculty, Russian and East European Institute : Affiliated Faculty, University of Notre Dame, Emerging Technologies of National Security and Intelligence (ETNSI) : Affiliated Faculty, Institute for National Security Studies : Researcher

Education

University of Cambridge

M.Phil, Ph.D. International Relations

Stanford Law School

J.D. Law

Indiana University

B.A. Economics and Political Science

Accomplishments

U.S. Department of Education Grant

2015 Awarded for work with the Indiana University Center for International Business Education and Research (CIBER).

Overseas Research Grant

2015 Awarded by Indiana University Office of the Vice President for International Affairs.

Steven Block Civil Liberties Award

2015 Awarded by Stanford Law School for writing on civil rights.

International Conflict and Negotiation Fellowship

2015 Awarded by the Stanford Center on International Conflict.

Rotary Ambassadorial Scholarship

2015 Awarded by the State of Indiana.

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.