

Stephan Moll, M.D.

Professor at UNC-Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, NC, US

Dr. Moll's clinical interest is coagulation and classical hematology, with a particular focus on thrombosis and anticoagulation.

Dr. Moll received his medical degree from Freiburg University, Germany. He completed an internship/residency in internal medicine and a hematology-oncology fellowship at Duke University Medical Center (1989-1996), during which he also did a 1-year clinical coagulation fellowship at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill (1994-1995). Dr. Moll's postgraduate career included a position in clinical coagulation in the cardiology division of the Humboldt University in Berlin, Germany (1997-1999). Dr. Moll has been a faculty member at UNC in the Department of Medicine and the Division of Hematology-Oncology since 1999. His clinical focus is coagulation, particularly thrombosis and thrombophilia. Dr. Moll's research interests include clinical trials on new anticoagulants, better use of established anticoagulants, antiphospholipid antibody syndrome and postthrombotic syndrome. He has a major interest in health education of patients, public and health care providers about blood clots and clotting disorders. Since 2001 he has written a Q/A section on thrombosis and thrombophilia for the non-profit website www.fvleiden.org. Dr. Moll is a co-founder of the national patient advocacy group NBCA (National Blood Clot Alliance; www.stoptheclot.org), and a board member of the national non-profit anticoagulation provider organization AC-Forum (Anticoagulation Forum; www.acforum.org). He has authored and coauthored a number of peer-reviewed articles textbook chapters on blood clots. He is the founder of the UNC Blood Clot Education Outreach Program created in 2010.

Education/Learning, Research, Medical/Dental Practice

Hematology, Oncology, Blood Flow Clotting, Coagulation, Thrombosis, Thrombophilia

Duke University Medical Center
Internship Internal Medicine

Duke University Medical Center
Residency Internal Medicine

Duke University Medical Center
Fellowship Hematology- Oncology

Freiburg University
M.D. Medicine

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.