

Susan Scheibler

Chair and Associate Professor and of Film, Television and Media Studies at Loyola Marymount University

Los Angeles, CA, US

Associate Professor of Film, TV & Video Games at Loyola Marymount University

Biography

Sue Scheibler has graduate degrees in New Testament Studies and Philosophy of Religion and a PhD in Critical Studies (Film and Television) from the University of Southern California. She has published in Theorizing Documentary, Alternative Media Handbook, War: Interdisciplinary Investigations, Signs and assorted journals. Her research and teaching interests include film theory, television studies, documentary, Asian film, science fiction, technologies of war, memory, video games and Asian philosophy. Scheibler has spoken at such engagements as the War, Virtual War and Human Security Conference where she presented on the topic of "Experiencing War the Video Game Way: Call of Duty 2?" and the American Cultural Studies Association where she spoke about avatars, war and the documentary image. She is currently working on two projects: Windows, Frames, Screens: Understanding Media and The Meditative Gaze: Media and Eastern Philosophy.

Industry Expertise

Education/Learning, Media Production

Areas of Expertise

Asian Film and Tv, Science Fiction Film and Tv, International Film Theory and History, Video Game Studies, Documentary Film and Video Theory and History, Film Theory and History, Tv Theory and History

Education

University of Southern California

Ph.D. Critical Studies

University of Southern California

M.A. Critical Studies

Claremont Graduate University

M.A. Philosophy of Religion

Talbot Theological Seminary

M.A. New Testament Studies

Biola University

B.A. Biblical Studies, Communication Arts (Theater)

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.