Testimonials

J. Bruce Cusack

You were quite an inspiration to our students. These students are well trained in their technical field and ready for the workplace or further education. Motivation to stay focused in order to become successful is just what they need, and you provide that motivation. I think you had a great impact on our graduates. It was a very culminating moment for them at a very critical point in their life. Great Job!

Teresa Pope

The conference attendees noted that the presentations were all very helpful, practical, and informative. Several remarked that these sessions were some of the best groups they have ever heard.

L. Diane Williams

The Senior Companion Program volunteers were pleasantly surprised with the keynote speaker for their 10th Anniversary Program at the New Bern Convention Center was the dynamic, young and energetic Tracy Williams, former Harlem Globetrotter. The comments below reflect the reactions that the audience had about their experience with Tracy: ~ Tracy was personable, upbeat, related well to the seniors ~ He was positive and motivating ~ "This young man definitely has a lot to say" ~ He brought the message home-personalized it to what the seniors experience daily ~ "I can understand why he'd be well received by any audience, irregardless of age" ~ The senior volunteers loved this young man!

Your timely reminder to the women that they still have the opportunity to change their minds about how they live their lives was most appropriate and provided much hope to the inmates and staff who were present. I have received a number of notes from the women stating that they "were so blessed" and "really needed to hear what he had to say".

Peggy Malone

You were a huge hit, and we certainly hope you will come back to see us again. Your message was very entertaining but presented very serious information to the audience; especially with the teens. You were a huge hit with the teens as well as the adults.

Maxine D. Porcher

You truly impacted our population as well as the staff. We are looking forward to you returning and being a part of our team.
